CATALOG DESCRIPTION

This is the general course description for the course that can be found at:

<https://catalog.ucsd.edu/courses/VIS.html>

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will provide each student with a broad range of strategies for publicly presenting their work beyond the studio. Organized into weekly themes such as “Audiences,” “COVID 19 & After,” “Community,” and “Arts Institutions,” students will receive a practical and well-rounded foundation in curatorial studies and exhibition practice. The required readings will draw on recent publications in the field, emphasizing conversations that connect exhibition-making with broader issues such as structural inequity, new technologies and the evolving public sphere.

The course will lead to the required thesis solo exhibition for MFA candidates in Visual Arts as well as an (optional) MFA Preview Exhibition in January 2025 organized at the Mandeville Art Gallery. A detailed proposal of the MFA solo thesis exhibition is required to complete this course.

CLASS EXPECTATIONS

Attendance and Tardy Policy

In order to receive credit for weekly attendance, students must show up to weekly sessions on Wednesdays from 9-11:50am PST.

Regular attendance in all classes is required. Students are expected to arrive on time and remain in class for the entire period scheduled. The responsibility for work missed due to any type of absence rests with the student. Attendance is mandatory. Three unexcused absences will result in a student failing the class. Three late arrivals are equivalent to one unexcused absence. Any exceptions are up to the instructor.

Technology in the classroom etiquette

Turn off all devices before class. Laptops may be used to make notes only: you may be asked to close your computer if it is distracting you or your classmates. Students who surf, check email or similar will be asked to leave and marked absent for that day. If the behavior persists or becomes endemic to the class, then all student computers will be barred from the room.

Discussion etiquette

This is a graduate seminar requiring significant student input in the form of facilitation and involvement in discussion. To this end, reading assignments are to be completed BEFORE each seminar class and notes prepared to ensure class participation.

Participation in all class discussions is mandatory. Everyone is expected to come to class with specific topics or questions they would like to address in the readings.

WRITING ASSIGNMENTS

For all Writing Assignments, you must use consistent and properly formatted footnotes or endnotes, preferably using the Chicago Manual of Style format that is the standard in the field. If you have any questions about proper formatting, please see the Chicago Manual of Style or its website (<https://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org>). You will be marked down for inconsistent and/or improperly formatted footnotes. All writing should be in Times New Roman, 12pt, double spaced.

Writing Assignment 1: Exhibition "Close Reading" Exercise

Each student will visit a group or solo show currently on view and conduct a "close reading" of this exhibit.

Writing Assignment 2: Plan for MFA Preview Group Exhibition

Working with your classmates and under guidance from the instructor, as a group you will develop a working plan for a MFA Preview Group Exhibition in January 2025. In preparation for this assignment, we will look at past MFA group exhibitions at the Mandeville Art Gallery, and engage in ample discussion regarding the structure of a group exhibition.

Final Project: MFA Thesis Solo Exhibition Proposal

You will write detailed MFA Thesis Solo Exhibition Proposal. This proposal includes:

- Exhibition Title
- Exhibition Narrative
- Checklist
- Floorplan

Please consult the MFA Handbook for more details about the MFA Final Solo Thesis:

PRESENTATIONS

Final Presentation: In the spirit of a Pecha Kucha each student will do a 10 minute presentation with 3 slides on their MFA Thesis Solo Exhibition Proposal.

STUDENT FACILITATION

You will facilitate one icebreaker activity at the beginning of class once during the quarter. During this same session, you will close-out the class with an example artwork (from another artist) or an exhibition that considers the week's topic.

The aim of the icebreaker activity is to encourage you to think about how one's actions (and ultimately, one's artwork) can facilitate gathering and determine public space. You are welcome to source this icebreaker activity from someone else - such as re-staging an artist's score or adapting a dance warm-up or realizing a strategy from community organizing - but please be sure to credit the origin of this method.

The close-out example will invite a formal end to the class session and an opportunity for students to reflect on what has transpired.

Wellness and Health Statement

I believe a healthy work/life balance and the prioritization of overall well-being is a central component to one's success both within this class and beyond. Towards this end, I model well-being as a value in my classes. Please be kind and generous to yourself, and to others. If you are unable to attend class because of a personal or family emergency, please communicate that to me over email.

Braver Space Statement

As your professor, I strive to create an open and inclusive environment in which participants feel empowered to take risks and engage in challenging discussions. I want my classes to be joyful, democratic, inspiring, imaginative, and safe spaces for all. In order for us to collectively commit to this practice within our class sessions, please consult the principles below, which originated from Common Field's Community Agreement.

- Hold ourselves accountable first, and enter each space with a humble heart and loving criticality. Center care in our interactions with others and in representing our own needs.
- In order to create a classroom environment that is truly intersectional and inclusive, we need to recognize that inequity is systemic. Before entering each session, take a moment to acknowledge our differences and be honest about our own privileges and power. Make a conscious effort to resist ableism, racism, classism, ageism, sexism, homophobia, and transphobia in our language, imagery, and examples.
- Prioritize listening is essential in creating inclusive space. When we listen, center the voices of people with disability, trans & queer, black & brown, low-income, non-English speaking or other non-white folks. Silence can be helpful especially when it means we are actively listening and processing.
- Rather than reacting to one's immediate need to manage disagreement or achieve perfection, give space for discomfort, mistakes, vulnerability and non-closure. It is often through mistakes and discomfort that we grow.
- Respect each other's privacy and personal boundaries, including confidentiality. Understand that safety, accessibility and personal boundaries mean different things for different people. The way to create a safer and more accessible space for everyone is to ask respectfully and learn from one another interpersonally.

– Have fun. Take breaks. Allow space for yourself and others to enter and leave according to their needs.

I welcome any suggestions and feedback that will help us take better care of each other intentionally throughout these sessions and beyond. If you have additional accessibility needs or encounter any difficulties during the events, feel free to contact me.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Integrity of scholarship is essential for an academic community. The University expects that both faculty and students will honor this principle and in so doing protect the validity of University intellectual work. For students, this means that all academic work will be done by the individual to whom it is assigned, without unauthorized aid of any kind. <http://senate.ucsd.edu/Operating-Procedures/Senate-Manual/Appendices/2>

Effective 9/25/2017, UC San Diego will use new Administrative Sanctioning Guidelines to respond to academic integrity violations:
